STATE ASSN. OF SCD SUPERVISORS TO SPONSOR MODERNIZATION BILL

Seavey Piper, Troy, chairman of the Legislative Committee of the State Association of Soil Conservation Supervisors announced recently that a bill to modernize the soil conservation district program has been introduced by Senator Ida Harrington of Penobscot County.

Mr. Piper noted that the State Soil Conservation Committee and the local districts are trying to make a go of the conservation job with methods conceived in the infancy of the conservancy era when "erosion control" was about the only aim then seen for the program. Now, in 1963, the program has vast and complex reponsibilities that effect Maine's economy, community welfare, and the future development of the entire State.

One of the points of the proposed revision of the District Law would strengthen the State Soil Conservation Committee and the voice of local districts, by adding one supervisor representing three or four districts, on the State Committee. In Southwestern Maine, one supervisor would represent Oxford, Androscoggin Valley, Cumberland and York County Soil Conservation Districts. Each area would elect a representative once in every four years.

The proposed bill would also change the names of districts to Soil and Water Conservation Districts to include the importance of water management in the District Programs.

Mr. Piper pointed out one important change the revision would make, in providing an executive secretary for the State Association of District Supervisors. This trained man would coordinate the affairs of the association and act as contacting officer in watershed projects for the district involved.

Mr. Piper stated that the present District Law provides

MESC WARNS PAYMENT DUE BY JAN. 31

Commissioner James J. George Sr., employer representative on the Maine Employment Security Commission, reminds employers of the January 31, 1963 deadline for payment of contributions for the period ending December 31, 1962.

Costly state and federal penalties are imposed on those whose payments are delinquent. During 1961 deliquent employers were subject to interest and penalties amounting to $25,319.91, the commissioner said.

Employers with four or more employees for any part of any 20 weeks who have not been determined liable to the State and Federal Laws should contact the State Employment Office nearest them in order that a representative of the agency may assist them in-determining whether or not liability exists.

Presently subject employers who did not have four or more employees for the required period during 1962 may be eligible to apply for termination of coverage. This, too, must be done prior to January 31, 1963.

Employers who are delinquent in payment of contributions due for any period in 1962 will be subject to an additional federal penalty unless such payment is received by the Maine Employment Security Commission on or before January 31, 1963.

Employers also were reminded that their annual payroll reports are due on or before March 1, 1963 and that a penalty also is invoked for late filing of this report.

Elmo had left for the 11 p. m. shift at the Oxford mill when fire was discovered by Mrs. Serafin when she got up and went downstairs to get cough syrup for one of the girls.

The Milton House had not operated for nearly 50 years but at one time was a boarding house owned by William Milton and later by his son, Ernest. The family of George Stowell Jr., West Bethel, resided there many years.

A modern kitchen and bathroom had recently been installed and they had planned on tearing down the ell. The barn was saved as well as most of the furniture on the first floor. Only two of the four chimneys and a skeleton front stood when morning came. The house was partially insured. Lost was a valuable gun collection.

Mrs. Serafin is the former Mary Hall of South Andover.

assistance from the State to the local districts to the extent of one penny for each twenty acres. An approved contribution by the State amounting to as little as a penny a year for each three acres will help to guide and equip local people to do the manifold jobs of soil and water conservation.

Mr. Piper also pointed out that under the present law no mechanism exists to assist local financing and cost-sharing obligations for large scale conservation works of improvement such as Watershed Development Programs. He said the new bill would allow districts permissive authority to levy assessments, issue bonds, secure loans, purchase easements, exert powers of eminent domain, according to wishes of local people who will benefit.

Comment from the Capital —

A MONOPOLY WE NEVER TALK ABOUT

by Vant Neff

Recently, Senator Goldwater of Arizona addressed the Senate about the dangerous concentration of union power that exists in our economy.

Everyone is aware that union satraps can grind all transportation to a halt, cut off food deliveries, stall the construction of defense installations and stop international commerce at the waterfront.

It's a matter of public record that at the drop of a verb, unions halt trade, production and deliveries more and more frequently. The Bureau of Labor Statistics has recorded 266 more strikes for the first six months of 1962, over a similar period in 1961. This stoppage involved 800,000 workers.

Senator Goldwater outlined a substantial number of monopoly powers enjoyed by unions and said unless we take immediate steps to curb the Frankenstein we have created, we are in grave danger of losing our free economy.

In addition, the Senator read a letter from a worker in Oregon about union dues, fees and hiring practices. The Senator said he had been deluged for some years with such letters from workers in all parts of the country, pleading to help against the tyranny of union bosses. Here are some quotations from the worker in Oregon:

"Try to join a union and they tell you that you have to pay $360 initiation fee plus 3 months dues which makes it well over $400 to join. I ask you, Senator, where is a working man going to have that kind of money? Even if one succeeds in borrowing or accumulating this amount, they say there is no work for you because you are a new member."

"Try to get them to take some down and the rest as you can and you are told that they are not a loan company. Pay the full amount or don't bother them."

"Even if you do succeed in getting in, you find yourself getting all the scraps while a very few get all the choice jobs, even by telling employers they don't have anyone available and holding choice jobs for those already working. Oh, they say, they have a hiring list and your name goes on the bottom of the list and you work up but for some reason your name never gets very far up the list unless you are one of the ins."

Not much for a $400 investment, is it?

This same worker goes on to tell about a friend of his who was critical of union leadership. Immediately, his friend was blacklisted; sent all over the state on temporary jobs with not enough pay to send for his family or establish a permanent home. Generally, his friend was treated little better than a slave laborer.

You can hardly believe you are living in the United States, when you read letters similar to this one.

How did unions get this power? How long have we been asleep?

The truth is that the Administrations and Congresses of the last thirty years have been granting labor unions, more and greater privileges and immunities all during this time.

Here are some as they appear in the Congressional Record:

Almost total immunity from antitrust laws.

Immunity from taxation.

Immunity from injunction by Federal Courts.

Freedom to use union members' money for almost any purpose.

Power to compel workers to join unions whether they want to or not — on penalty of being denied employment, or losing the job they have.

The right to speak for all and agree for all in a plant or other unit including employees who do not want a union. The right, in some instances, to invade the privacy of workers, even against their wishes. This deprives workers of a legal right enjoyed by all of us under the Constitution of the United States.

Immunity from the payment for damages for personal injury and property damage inflicted on employees or others by union members engaged in concerted activities, such as strikes, picketing, and violence.

These are only a few of the special privileges and powers granted unions under Federal law. No other private organization, association, or individual in the U.S. is the beneficiary of such a powerful combination of extraordinary privileges and immunities — under either state or Federal law.

In courts of law and before committees in Congress, volumes of testimony have been recorded on collusion between unions, the abuse of the rights of union members, and in some cases, illegal pacts between crooked unions and employers — all in disregard of public interest.

To further illustrate favoritism to union bosses — where two business corporations attempt to divide a market, the Anti-Trust Section of the Justice Department cracks down hard.

Now take two labor unions. What does the "No Raiding" clause mean? For practical purposes, these unions are dividing a market. The result of this union doctrine is that the employee can no longer join a union of his own choosing. He can only join the one, union bosses tell him he must.

Can you imagine the furor, if any employer arbitrarily took money out of his employees' wages?

Yet, this is exactly what giant unions claim the right to do. The United Auto Workers has a clause in its constitution that calls for an automatic increase in dues when the strike fund falls below the $20 million mark.

Do you begin to see that there is one set of standards for the country at large, and completely different rules for unions?

Isn't it time to act and curb rampant union power — while we still have the freedom to do so?

20 SECONDS with the NAZARENE

Rev. Patnode
Bethel Church of the Nazarene

In His youth, Jesus was keenly aware of His responsibility to His Father for He said, "Wist ye not that I must be about my Father's business?"

Youth Week is an opportune time for young people to think seriously of the Father's business for them. More than a time of social activity, Youth Week should be a time of spiritual growth.

(Quotation from Jesus, Luke 2:49)

Thursday, January 24

Read Acts 16:6-15

During the night a vision came to Paul: a Macedonian stood there appealing to him and saying, "Come across to Macedonia and help us." (Acts 16:9. NEB.)

On his second missionary journey, Paul had reached the port of Troas in Asia Minor. It was here that his vision of the Macedonia convinced him that Holy Spirit was calling him to cross the sea. At Philippi, he spoke to a group of devout women who gathered by the riverside, and a church was established in that city.

In a later day, Francis Asbury heeded a similar call and crossed the Atlantic Ocean to spend almost half a century ministering along the American frontier.

Our own "Macedonia" may be closer home. It may be a worthwhile cause in need of volunteer helpers. It may be a needy family or some individual—and the need could be spiritual as well as material. Whatever the appeal, let us always pay heed when the Holy Spirit calls us to serve our fellowmen.

PRAYER: We pray, our Father, that we may hear Thy call when it comes to us and be ready to serve Thee by serving our fellowmen in their need, whatever that need may be. In the name of Christ, who taught us to pray, "Our Father who art in heaven. ....Amen."

Thought For The Day

Our love for Christ is measured by our response to His call to service.

Early Families in Upton

The History of Upton now in preparation will include the genealogies of the early families up to the year 1892 when vital records were first recorded. As a service to its readers, the Bethel Citizen is publishing in each issue as space permits the family genealogies as they would appear in the history. Corrections would be appreciated and should be sent to the Bethel Citizen.

Bragg

The Bragg Genealogy is given in the Essex Antiquarian of January, 1907, page 62, down to Thomas Bragg who died in Upton in 1840. The family came from Andover, Mass., to Andover, Maine, 1795, Thomas being 10 years old at the time.

According to Andover Memorials, "Thomas Bragg, son of Ingalls, lived with his parents during during his minority and some time longer. He had part of his father's farm and married Sophia Farrington. They were not very industrious and did not get very rich. In 1814 or 15 he with his brother James Ingalls put up a distillery to make whiskey of potatoes and malt and ran it several years, using two to three thousand bushels of potatoes yearly. Mr. Bragg moved to Upton and went farming there, living with his son John until his death."

In 1816, according to this Andover history, Thomas Bragg took care of Mollocket. In 1831 he sold his farm there so probably moved to Upton in that year. He died Feb. 2, 1840, the first burial known in the Letter B cemetery.

THOMAS FRY, born in Andover May 5, 1809, married Lucy Barner Dunn, daughter of Aaron Dunn of Dunn's Notch. She was born April 7, 1806, dying December 13, 1890. Thomas Fry died Feb. 6, 1894. According to Poor, he, in 1833, "imbibes a little and is sometimes fractious."

LAFOREST FRY, born May 7, 1853, married Emma Kimball. They farmed the Bragg farm on the Andover Road. LaForest was a great steer trainer. He would grain his steers and they would not touch the grain until he told them. He would also make them sing to him. He wore his auburn hair down so long that his wife used to curl it. He died Feb. 25, 1911.

GERTRUDE D., born Jan. 6, 1876, married Herbert Cambell and moved to Andover.

JOHN INGALLS, born in Andover August 1815 married Nancy B. Graham in 1840 in Rumford. He moved to Upton in 1849, clearing a farm on the Andover Road and later built the house later to be known as Bragg's Hotel. Nancy died Nov. 13, 1890 and John Ingalls died April 29, 1892.

FRANK W., born in 1839 married Hattie J. Choate of Vermont. He died in Auburn at the age of 85.

According to the 1850 Census, family then consisted of John I., Nancy and Ellen M., age 6 and Philander M. Bragg, age 30, lived with the family.

Joseph Peaslee was born in 1808 in Concord, N. H. Sometime before 1847 he married Philena D Jackson of Newry, daughter of Apphia Bartlett Jackson. In 1847 their first child was born in Sutton, N. Y., and in 1850 their second child was born in Cambridge, where he lived in a log cabin for a time. He then built a log cabin on Upton Hill and later cleared the farm at Birch Point. He died May 28, 1887, at the age of 79 and Philena died July 16, 1882, at the age of 58.

COUNTRY FLAVOR

R. F. D.

Some day a perceptive historian will pen a volume to the Rural Free Delivery carriers and tell what they have meant to millions of our citizens. Half a century ago when men were arguing whether the new fangled horseless carriages would ever amount to anything, the RFD man was a link with the outside world.

The gray metal boxes beside country roads were more than utilitarian receptacles. The mailman was more than a government official making his rounds in spite of storms and hardships.

Rural Free Delivery was first suggested by Postmaster General Wanamaker in 1891. On June 9, 1896 the first experimental route was opened at Charles Town in West Virginia. Today it is nation-wide and millions of families outside population centers, watch for the RFD man and the mail he brings.

Farm families know the RFD man as a friend; he brings papers and magazines, parcels and messages from friends along the line. Mothers and fathers have watched for the envelopes that meant boys and girls in distant places were thinking of the home farm. In the wars that a nation fought to preserve its independence, messages came from the far corners of the earth, and sometimes an impersonal letter told of the supreme sacrifice far from the home and land loved so well.

We take RFD for granted, but there are men in plush city offices who remember how they sent an order to a distant mail order company for a wanted piece of equipment, and then waited impatiently for the package. Old Sam, the RFD man knew. One day he pulled up in his pung behind the roan mare and said, "Well, son, it's here. Guess this is the Barlow knife you want." RFD is official and of necessity has its rules but the men who serve Uncle Sam also serve those who come to the box to meet them.

JAYCEE WEEK

Jaycee Week, the annual anniversary observance of the Junior Chamber of Commerce started Jan. 20 and continues until Jan. 26, which was announced by Richard L. Blake, local Jaycee President.

He said the purpose of this week is to focus attention on young men and the work they are doing, and emphasized that the Bethel Jaycees have done an outstanding job in the fields of teenage counselling, teenage Road-eos, Miss Oxford County Pageants, community development, and many other worthwhile projects.

During Jaycee Week observance here, the U. S. Jaycees will be recognizing America's Ten Outstanding Young Men of 1962 in Little Rock, Ark., with National Jaycee President Doug Blankenship making the presentations.

The Week celebrates the founding of the Junior Chamber in 1915, when Henry Giessenbier saw a need for a young men's civic group and organized the first chapter. The movement spread so fast that in 1920, the U. S. Junior Chamber of Commerce was formed with 24 cities represented. The Bethel Jaycees were formed in 1960.

Built on the solid foundation of creating opportunities for leadership training through community betterment projects, the Jaycees today, over 200,000 strong, are active in 4,500 communities in the United States. National Headquarters is located in Tulsa, Okla.

ALIENS MUST REGISTER

C. C. Doughty, District of the Immigration and Naturalization Service said today aliens in Maine have only ten more days within which to comply with the Federal law requiring that aliens report their address to the Government during January of each year.

The Immigration official urged all aliens who have not yet complied to go as soon as possible to the nearest Post Office or Immigration Service office to file the report.

Parents or guardians must file the report for alien children under 14 years of age.

Mr. Doughty said the address report is required each year from all aliens except those in diplomatic status, representatives of certain international organizations and persons admitted temporarily as agricultural laborers.

He points out wilful failure to comply involves penalties including a fine and deportation.

The official said an estimated 19,000 aliens in this State have already complied with the address report requirements, compared to over 21,000 who filed address reports last year.

Plans for the future: Poppy Day is some months away but plans are being made even now for this important day. This year we have been asked to tell the public exactly where the donations are used. It is so easy for us to say, "It goes only to help the veterans and their families" or "it is used for welfare." But how many really understand the exact usage of the fund? We have been asked to tell the story of the Joy of the Poppy to at least five outside organizations. This message will be delivered very concisely in "Coffee-Cream Time" and I feel that everyone is interested in knowing where their dimes and dollars go. Please let us tell you of the wonderful work that is being done with our Poppy Fund.—Edith Smith, Poppy Chairman.

Everything piles up handsomely in a Chevy II including savings

Imagine a low-loading wagon roomy enough to handle most anything you can heft—and still trim enough to slip into cramped parking spots. We imagined it, built it and called it Chevy II. Made it as dependable as a wagon can get. And made it so it'll keep piling up savings over the years. Those show up in the way this one goes and goes on a gallon. They grow with brakes that adjust themselves. An exhaust system that lasts longer. And a Delcotron generator that keeps battery reserve power up. Want to hear more? How about a low price, natty interiors, Body by Fisher craftsmanship —and a talk with your Chevrolet dealer soon!

MAINE RANKS 39th IN EDUCATION EXPENDITURES

Maine ranks 39th in its per pupil expenditures for education. Across the nation 60 percent of high school graduates go on to higher education. In Maine, only 25 percent get the advantages of higher education.

These are but two problems in education that several thousand Maine citizens will talk about in February. They will meet in small groups in hundreds of neighborhoods all over Maine to discuss the problems of education, government, taxation, and resources.

Sponsored by the Maine Extension Service, the discussion groups will be supplied with sheets that provide basic information. The group members will use this information and their own knowledge to gain an understanding of the problems that must be solved.

The discussion groups will be organized by individuals or couples who want to invite 8 to 12 of their friends and neighbors to meet with them. There will be no prepared talks or formal procedures. The groups will be self-governing and self administered.

There will be no formal attempt to resolve problems or recommend action by the group. The sole purpose of the discussion meeting is to stimulate Maine citizens to learn more about their state and take part in improving it.

Full details for organizing groups are available at the Oxford County Extension Association office in South Paris. All those interestsd in forming a group are urged to call for information and materials.

CAPITOL COMMENTS

CONGRESSMAN
CLIFFORD G. McINTIRE
MAINE, SECOND DISTRICT

The 88th Congress now is in full swing, and shortly after it opened the President delivered his State of the Union Message to the Congress. This and other types of Executive messages will serve as grist for the Congressional mill to grind away on in the legislative months that lie ahead.

The State of the Union Message centered on a broad array of domestic and foreign programs.

Perhaps the most prominent domestic aspect was that of tax reduction, with recommendations having been made for across-the-board tax cuts.

Such tax reductions, it is thought, provide both consumers and businessmen with more money for consumption and investment and, thereby, sow the seeds of economic expansion.

The matter of tax cuts will, of course, receive the critical study of the Congress for tax reductions would mean reduced revenue for the Federal Government. We already are $300 billion in debt as a nation, and are confronted with at least an $8 billion deficit for the current fiscal year and an estimated $11.9 billion deficit for the fiscal 1964 year.

The problem posed for the Congress is a perplexing one. It must determine what to do in order to compensate for revenue loss through tax reduction.

This can be done only by cutting back on government spending or by broadening the tax base. If restraint on government spending is to come about, there is going to have to be a dramatic reversal in the spending policies that have been adhered to over the last two years. And if tax reforms are going to be instituted, extreme care must be taken so that the taxpayer does not have taken away from him in the second instance what he was given in the first.

In any event, a substance of time will be spent by the Congress in pondering this tax reduction proposal. It is not likely that a tax bill will be ready for Congressional consideration before the arrival of summer.

The President, in his State of the Union Message, made some general comments in tribute to our free enterprise system. It is difficult at this time to determine the precise intent of these remarks, and only time will tell what action, if any, will support these words.

Among his references to foreign affairs, the President included Cuba. He indicated that the state of danger had lifted in this area.

Nothwithstanding this encouraging comment, it is generally recognized that a cloud of uncertainty hangs heavy over Cuba. Thousands of Russian troops and technicians are still in Castro country, and there has been no on-site inspection to provide assurance that there are no missiles hidden away in Cuban caves.

Well over 2,000 bills were dumped into the House hopper in the opening days of the Congress, and among these were three bills of mine.

One of the bills extends a tax reduction to those paying for a college education. In accord with its terms, a tax reduction would be provided for the costs of such its as tuition, books, and living expenses. Either a student or a taxpayer for a student could qualify for such a tax deduction.

Another bill is one that prohibits futures trading in Irish potatoes. I am convinced that there is an urgent need for this type of legislation. The heavy speculative activity that takes place on the New York Mercantile Exchange results in erratic and unwarranted price gyrations. These price gymnastics unquestionably act to the detriment of our Maine potato growers.

The other bill is one that would provide veteran benefits for female telephone operators that served in the Signal Corps during World War I. These individuals served with the expenditionary forces overseas during World War I, but they have been denied the veteran benefits extended to others serving under similar conditions. My bill is designed to correct this inequity by making the proper technical adjustment in existing law.

Miss Julia R. Brown, Gould Academy senior, who was chosen last week as Bethel's candidate for the State DAR Good Citizenship Award.
